Attention, friends of Superman!

Do you really want to be a friend of Superman? Well, now you can be, by owning a Kryptonite™ Rock! Kryptonite™ Rocks come from the planet Krypton. Some time ago this planet exploded, sending huge pieces of rocks into space.

For years the Kryptonite™ has fallen to earth and been captured by the enemy (we know who they are) who use it to try and kill one of our land's greatest heroes—Superman. You see, Kryptonite™ is the only substance against which Superman has no defense.

A short while ago we (the good guys) spotted a very large piece of Kryptonite™ Rock about to smash into the earth. We immediately sent out a search party to find and bring us the Kryptonite™ Rock before it fell into the enemy hands.

We now have the Kryptonite™ Rock broken down into million pieces and are making it available to all of Superman's friends for "safe-keeping."

Kryptonite™ Rocks are blue-green in color, and are safe, non-toxic and most exciting of all!
GLOW IN THE DARK!

So help keep Superman from being destroyed and at the same time own an amazing Kryptonite™ Rock that glows in the dark.

Kryptonite™ Rocks can be yours for only $2.50 plus a shipping charge.

The above story is only fictional and is in no way to be confused with actual fact!

BULLPEN BULLETINS

STAN'S SOAPBOX

Hey, gang, remember me telling you about our top-secret Project X last ish? Well, wouldja believe that it's such a hush-hush mystery that there are even some people in the Bullpen who don't know all about it? Since I previously mentioned that it's a new and different type of mag, the question has arisen, "Is it a comicbook, or have we abandoned the style that's made Marvel a household word?" (Well, in my household, anyway!) You can set your fears at rest, believer. Project X will definitely be a comicbook type of publication, but totally different from any we've ever done before! I'm hoping we can get our act together in the next couple of weeks so that I can lay it all on you next issue.

In the meantime, it's ceremony time! I hereby award a majestic Marvel medalion with oakleaf cluster to the students and faculty of Philadelphia's elite Temple University. While I was making a typical tempestuous speech on campus recently, Mellow Mike McGrath, a journalist buddy of mine who's one of Temple's more garrulous grads, informed me that this was the fourth time I had inflicted myself upon that awesome altar of academia! Four speeches at the same school! I don't know whether to congratulate them for their superb choice of lecturers, or for being unsurpassed gluttons for punishment! I'd probably wax even more sentimental except that I've gotta rush now—it's time to notify the Guinness Book of Records!

Incidentally, there's another big, wild surprise coming your way this month—and it's really different—really a knock-out! It's MARVEL FUN AND GAMES #1, the hottest thing since Johnny Storm's temper tantrums! Imagine, a brain-teaser on every big, exciting page—every one based on our own spectacular superheroes—with no ads; packed cover to cover with puzzles, mazes, games, and every far-out pencil project you can think of—as well as plenty that you never knew existed! It's another original Marvel first—never been anything like it! MARVEL FUN AND GAMES! Our latest and greatest monthly comicbook sensation! The first collector's-item issue is on sale now! So what're you waiting for? Go, team, go!

Now, 'tis time for me to resume our continuing argument about what to call Project X. I told our blushin' bullpen buddies the title wouldn't be all that important so long as we fill up most of the cover with those drama-fraught words, "Stan Lee Presents"—but I suspect they didn't quite see it that way! Hence, it's back to battle for the nonce. (And if I win a nonce, I hope it won't be too heavy to carry!) I'll bring you a blow-by-blow in my next column so you can learn how it all turns out. Till then, remember—never tackle a bad-tempered turtle; it could land you in the soup!

Excelsior!

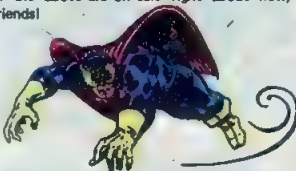

Stan

ITEM! The Comics Event of the Month and Possibly of the Year Dept: It's here! The 100th issue of CONAN THE BARBARIAN! It's 34 pages of thrills by Roy Thomas, John Buscema and Ernie Chan! It marks a dramatic turning point in the life of the sullen-eyed Cimmerian! It's sure to be a classic collector's item—and, by Grom, it's only 60¢! If you can only buy one comicbook this month, this is the one. Get it now!

ITEM! The Real-Life Human Interest Event of the Month and Possibly of the Year Dept: This month, amiable Editor Al Milgrom weds beautiful Judy Lewin, who hails from Al's home town of Detroit. Congratulations and best of luck from the Bullpen, folks!

ITEM! There are lots of things happening this month in Marvel Comics, and we humbly advise you to gloat onto every single one of our four-color wonders. If you want just a hint of what's in store (as if a word to the wise weren't sufficient) well, check this: In STAR WARS #25 an epic begins with a gripping tale entitled Siege at Yavin, by Archie Goodwin, Carmine Infantino and Gene Day. DEFENDERS #73 features the wildest, weirdest new character we've ever sent! His name is Xhoohx, and the only way to find out how to pronounce that is to ask scripter Ed Hannigan or buy a copy of the magazine. The secret that goes with that crazy monicker will floor you! Meanwhile, Spider-Man is up to his webbed neck in trouble with a feline female called the Black Cat, in THE AMAZING

SPIDER-MAN #194. Believe us, writer-editor Marv Wolfman made sure she's far more than you'd expect. Last, but not least by any means, we in the Bullpen would like to acknowledge what is possibly the outstanding achievement in comics art this month, namely DAREDEVIL #169. The story, by Roger McKenzie, is inspired, the art, by brand-new sensation Frank Miller and long-time star inker Klaus Janson, is superb. Don't pass it up! All of the above are on sale right about now, friends!

ITEM! Soon, very soon, a title will be returning to the Marvel lineup after a hiatus of nearly eight months. It's among the most requested comebacks of all time, in no small part by the Marvel editorial staff! We'll give you a hint—the title in question stars a character whose purpose is to discover his own humanity—or the lack of it! Watch this space!

ITEM! Speaking of Fun Books, the first MIGHTY MARVEL JUMBO FUN BOOK from Simon & Schuster, re-presents Fun Books #1 through #3 in 352 snazzy 8 1/2 x 11 pages. It's $6.95, complete with a preface by Stan the Man, and it's at better bookstores already.

ITEM! We're happy to report that pulchritudinous production person, Paty, is recovering nicely from the minor wounds accidentally inflicted by her pet hybrid Burmese python, Dum Düm Dugan, during a somewhat too-spirited play-session. And, on that happy note, we bid thee good health, and watch you sneaky snakes till next we meet!

ASSISTANT EDITOR

First, some late results on our rather special "Nighttime" issue, then the final results of our Shen Kuei Mini-Contest...

Dear Sirs,

After reading the first six pages of MOKF #71, I was forced to DOUBLE back and check the name of the author. Surely Doug Moench wouldn't stoop to a common re-cap. I was wrong. However, reading further, my initial shock was wholly unjustified. The jigsaw puzzle mesh of Shang-Chi's prior wanderings was anything but common and served as a perfect introduction for the story that followed.

Never in the history of comics has a character become so human. There's nothing else to be said.

Daryl Hooke

Dear Doug, Mike, and Bruce,

I've been meaning to write this letter ever since MOKF #71 came out, but every time I try to start I end up rereading the whole issue and never getting over to the typewriter. In short, I consider #71 to be the best issue of MASTER OF KUNG FU I have ever seen.

First off, while I had read every part of the "Red Seas" saga, pages 2 through 6 summed it up very nicely, folding it into a compact data base on which greater understanding of the characters can be built. It's surprising how much a summary helps in understanding a story, even if you've seen the whole thing.

The rest of the issue was a delightful breather between action stories, making us far more comfortable with the main characters, strengthening them and ensuring that future action sequences will be all the more effective. I hope this kind of issue sells as well as it should because I'd like to see more of these throughout Marvel's entire line. Peter Parker particularly needs a sit-back-and-meet-the-fellow issue; he has not been communicating himself to his readership very well recently.

Add to an already masterfully crafted issue some final touches, like the cat, "Close Encounters," the pizza, and Shang and Leiko's seeming obsession with Fleetwood Mac—and you have a true masterpiece! The whole experience was so unexpected, so...friendly, that I just can't bring myself to put it away. The art by Zeck and Patterson was fine, too. I'm glad to see Mike on MOKF; any chance of having Terry Austin ink an issue? He'd look great over Zeck.

While Terry Austin has been inking the occasional cover, Kurt, you've probably noticed by now that our new permanent inker is the slickly grabbing Gene Day. And believe us, you're gonna like his stuff!

Now, before Doug is tempted to dwell any longer on #71

(asking embarrassing questions like: "Howcum nobody noticed that the jigsaw puzzle motif began with the title, using the neologism "NightTimes" to form a congruent joining of two separate words?"), let's move onward—to the true meaning of Shen Kuei...

Greetings and salutations,

Well, people, here I am again. The significance of Shen Kuei's name derives from ancient Chinese mythology. The first clue is found in MOKF #38 (page 27, panel 1) when gang leader Chandar said to Cat: "...you are worthy of the legends dwelling in your name..."

Shen in Chinese means mountain, and Kuei can mean either Demon or Ghost, which then forms "Demon (or Ghost) of the Mountain." (Note: The imagery on page 15 is excellent, in that Shen Kuei's stronghold is situated above Hong Kong.) The Chinese legends of "Shen Kuei" inform us that he could assume the form or powers of his totem, which was either a fox or a wolf, or even sometimes a cat! It's obvious when viewing Shen Kuei's battle scenes that he has indeed assumed a number of his cat totem's abilities: Stealth, agility, swiftness, and ferocity, to name a few. As for the comparison/contrast between Cat and Chi: Both are active spirits seeking justice, but Chi is more esthetically minded while Cat is decidedly analytical in his thinking. Finally, they are presented as polar opposites, though not pure ones; this can be seen in the beautiful symbolism presented on pages 30 & 31 of MOKF #39. As we know, Shen Kuei is the embodiment of the yin (evil) and Chi is that of the yang (good). Also, Juliette is the yang within the yin, and the Siamese cat is the yin within the yang. By looking at the forms of Juliette and the Siamese cat, we may conclude that Shen Kuei has a great deal of yang within his yin (almost half and half, since Juliette is only slightly smaller than Shen Kuei), while Chi has a small but noticeable amount of yin within his yang (the stewardess noticed the Siamese cat bulging from his jacket at the end of #39). Thanks, group, for some truly enjoyable reading!

Dear Doug & Mike,

Remembering that the "rising and advancing of a spirit" nature of Shang-Chi's name comes from the I Ching, I turned to the Book of Changes for help with this Shen Kuei Mini-Contest. The Wilhelm/Baynes translation defines "Shen" as the light spirit (or yang). Taken together, Shen & Kuei encompass all possibilities, even as yin & yang unites all opposites to form a unity. Thus, it appears that Shang-Chi has an identical, but opposite, character to Shen Kuei. Something like an eternal conflict of equally balanced opposites seems to be implied.

Doug, you could have invented any pair of Chinese-sounding words to give Cat a real name. Instead, you did it the hard way, with cleverness and imagination, providing your readership with new & challenging Sinological concepts to ponder. "Wo ai ni" for it.

It seems we have here another split-win, and dual prizes will be awarded for both of the above entries. Congrats, People! However, once again Doug is just a wee bit surprised that no one quite got to the heart of the matter. In this case, simplicity is the key. Yes, "Shen Kuei" is indeed another way of saying "yin/yang," but also: "Shen" means "good" and "Kuei" means "evil." Ergo, Shen Kuei is a good bad-guy, while Shang-Chi is a bad good-guy. ("Bad," at least, in the "Cat" and "Fight Without Pity" two-parter.)

So until nexttime, be good (with just a touch of bad for balance), People!
